Fire fight after Fire fight an excellent up close and personal war memoir.

By Jug Head

This is a terrific account of close in fire fight after fire fight. The reader travels along with troops on one endless hump after endless hump. The soul crushing heat and humidity , clever booby traps designed to mutilate , Monsoons bringing relentless rain,day and night soaked to the bone. Rain so vicious you can't see or hear the NVA ,5 feet from your face. Giant Tigers stalking our soldiers as they stalk the NVA. All of the above why Leeches feast without end. Close friends mutilated and killed ,why survivors push on ,no time to morn, just stay in the fight.

In closing I was a Marine grunt chasing the VC 1965 / 66 . We carried M14's and never came out of the field never! There was no rear area resupply was a joke. Absolutely no Huey's , our uniforms rotted off and we were expected to fix them with com wire . I guess it was a different war?

Real way Vietnam war was

By Mauricio Kossler

Since I was part of that great 173rd airborne unit in Vietnam and lived that experience I like to congratulate Larry for saying things the way they were and personality I will say this's one of the best books made about Vietnam

Great read

By Edith Lesh

I was impressed by the authors straight forward presentation. Many of the other Vietnam memoirs I have read the author has used to brag about his own great feats, whereas this author presented a good story line that was not a bragger's tribute to himself. I was a little disappointed to find out the girlfriend married someone else, but that was quite common and continues to happen all too often to our military people who have to be away on duty.
